About Conservation Leadership Academy and Field Science Academy

Conservation Leadership Academy in Pike and Wayne Counties is a week of fun, adventure and hands-on learning. High school students will be immersed in a week long resident camp at the beautiful and historic Lacawac Sanctuary and Field Station

Field Science Academy students participate in current scientific research alongside university professors. Be immersed in the aquatic and terrestrial ecology at a field station. This is a week-long residential summer camp for high school students. Campers will conduct active, inquiry based research field studies at the pristine Lacawac Sanctuary and Field Station. Studies will include remote sensing of land use, weather patterns, and aquatic and terrestrial ecosystem analysis. The data collected will be reported to a global ecology database for use by scientists worldwide. Campers will also enjoy a river float trip through the Delaware Water Gap while studying the geology and ecology of the region.

Why sponsor our Summer Residential Academies?

Reach youth, parents and citizens who support the next generation of science and conservation leaders. Being an academy sponsorship is a unique way for your company or organization to empower youth to become emissaries for environmental conservation. Your support will help us to provide high quality programs for youth through hands-on discovery of ecosystems and watersheds while instilling stewardship of our natural resources.
